

Abstract

A portable electric arc welder having a power source creating a DC voltage between two output terminals to drive a welding device and an integrated, internal battery charger with an input stage and an output stage connectable to a battery to be charged, and a selectable switch having a first position connecting the terminals to the welding device and a second position connecting the terminals to the integrated battery charger.